

Santa Claus Comes To Town

SANTA CLAUS COMES TO TOWN is a short story that spreads more than holiday cheer.

Zion Hill is dedicated to giving back to the community and volunteers to coordinate an outreach project.

Chelsea Watson is forced to confront stereotypes she harbors towards African -American Santa Clauses.

Derek Reed struggles with self-doubt and uses his ladies' man persona as a façade.

Zoe Hill is annoyed by Derek's façade and suppresses her love for him.

When Zion's brokerage firm donates a substantial amount of money for a Christmas extravaganza at the Boys & Girls Club, these four come together to make the community event a success.

Zion, Chelsea, Derek, and Zoe plan to pass out presents to the children at the Christmas extravaganza. But when truths are uncovered and stereotypes addressed, these do gooders end up receiving gifts of their very own.
